Conduct Unbecoming An American

Differences of opinion between the chief executive and the legislative branch are not new. They began in George Washington's time and will go on as long as the United States retains a government with responsibility divided among executive, legislative and judicial departments.

But it is conduct unbecoming an American to permit the differences of opinion to become abusive. It was conduct unbecoming to Franklin D. Roosevelt who attacked both the judiciary and legislative branches. It is conduct even less becoming to President Harry Truman, whose current imitations of his predecessor's dangerous political tactics are shabby campaign tricks to conceal the weakness of the political party whose nomination he is seeking. When politicians stoop to such behavior they are guilty of undermining the very system they are sworn to uphold. They are guilty, moreover, of insulting the sovereignty of the people by whose sufferance they hold office.

Mr. Truman has plucked congress. The temptation is strong to get even with him; that is one of the dangers of inter-departmental bickering. A safer way would be to let him go unanswered, on the sound assumption that the more he says the more he will reveal about himself and his desperate position as the leader of a patchwork party that has come apart at the political seams.

Men Wanted

Capt. Charles E. Yeager, the 25-year-old test pilot who guided the first supersonic plane beyond the sound barrier over Muroc, Calif., is a pioneer in a great adventure of modern times.

Perhaps the demonstration that an airplane can move faster than sound waves may be less important in the long run than the demonstration that a pilot can be trained to operate it at that incredible speed.

Even in the late war, the now obsolete planes then in use were taxing human ability to fly them. The same kind of decisions and manipulations which automobile drivers must make in seconds to avert disaster had to be made in tiny fractions of seconds to avert certain death. The supersonic plane reduces the fractions still further.

Sound waves move at a speed of 1,266 feet a second through air at a temperature of 100 degrees. In the time it takes to spell M-T-S-S-T-S-S-T-P-P-I, a plane moving faster than sound would have moved a mile. At such speeds, all relationships based on ordinary experience would be meaningless. Objects would be approached at a rate of better than 14 miles a minute. Two supersonic planes approaching each other would pass at a speed of close to 1,800 miles an hour. The slightest deviation from a level, straight course would start unconsciousness in the pilot. The slightest lapse from perfection in the handling of the controls would bring death. The question is whether the same kind of genius that can produce a supersonic airplane can develop the kind of man who can fly it to any purpose.

Shortcake Shortage

The strawberry shortcake season is at hand, a good time of year when the first part of the meal should be light to allow for the luscious dessert.

When served with the lavish hand characteristic of the farm kitchen, strawberry shortcake is a noble delicacy, a meal in itself. Even strawberries and heavy cream alone constitute a memorable occasion. Reference will not be made here to those who deprecate strawberries with brandy, kirsch or other malodorous liquors.

Unfortunately, the restaurant diner has no chance to enjoy strawberries to the fullest. The price of a helping of shortcake ranges from 25 cents to $1.25, depending on the magnificence of the restaurant, but portions are skimpy even when a fancy waiter serves them with a pure linen dolly on the saucer.

A helping of shortcake the other evening brought a total of 15 berries and an apology from the proprietor that even at the price he was losing money, could comfort to a strawberry gourmand known as the terror of the patch in his berry-picking days.

Geographical Oddity

An Argentine dignitary, speaking in New Orleans recently, said there was no reason why that city couldn't become North America's great wool port, a distinction now held by Boston.

His hosts agreed. After all, New Orleans is closer to wool-exporting Buenos Aires than is Boston, they pointed out. But that was where they were wrong. Boston newspapers were quick to observe that the sea distance from Buenos Aires to Boston is 5,800 miles, from Buenos Aires to New Orleans 6,400 miles.

That's an addition for the list of Geographical oddities on which specialists have been collecting bets for years. It's one of those oddities like the fact that Reno is farther west than Los Angeles, or that Miami is east of Havana, or that Chile's coastline is farther east than New York City.

No Volume Control

The Supreme court has ruled that the loudspeaker is an instrument of free speech. The decision was based on an action by Jehovah's Witnesses of Lockport, N. Y., who continued to use a loudspeaker in a public park after the permit had expired. It is in political campaigns that loudspeakers are generally used.

Speaking for the majority of five, Justice Douglas feared that the right of free speech might be abused by local authority. Justice Jackson, for the minority of four, observed that free speech is fine as long as it falls on willing ears, but there is a point at which free speech becomes disturbing to the peace.

The ruling means that a political candidate is free to use a loudspeaker to present his cause. In so doing, he should remember that injudicious noise can alienate votes as well as win them.

The Stars Say

For Sunday, June 13

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

SUNDAY'S horoscope hold augury of very lively and pleasant activities, with much of an intellectual, cultural, social, perhaps romantic nature, engaging the attention.

Punctuations of pleasure and fun should wax merrily, providing they be kept within the bounds of good taste and reason, since there is also an augury of excess, excitement and friction for lack of restraint. Accidents, cuts, fires, and loss may penalize any want of caution.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of opportunity with progress, change, new contracts or pleasant renewals, with adaptability and resourcefulness gladly recognized.

The personal element is strong, and charm, beauty, culture and graciousness may be prudently utilized. However, there is a hint of excess, over-doing, antagonism, and tumult, with physical harm, hurts and accidents to be reckoned with for violations of consideration, good taste.

A child born on this day will have much versatility, intellect and acumen, with a gracious and affectionate personality.

This might be negative by turbulent emotions, quick temper or other extravagance or excess, with consequent harm or penalties.

For Monday, June 14

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a day of little accomplishment or progress, since there are many aspects of delay, cross purpose, lack of resources, energies and cooperation.

There is a sign of scattered energies, substance and assets, with an abrupt occurrence which may upset and devastate all plans and objectives. The judgment may be faulty and the impulses erratic. It would be advisable to postpone all vital operations until more hopeful and encouraging auspices. Guard funds and health.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, may find themselves hemmed into a period of frustrated or difficult situations, in which scattered energies, resources and plans may prove devastating.

Under erroneous judgment, erratic impulses or emotions, it could be a time of loss of funds, position, reputation and even close personal affiliations. A sudden or untoward event may disturb and distress. A period of relaxation and restraints could be beneficial in all ways.

A child born on this day may be subject to strange and unpredictable upsets and disturbances, scattering its energies and undermining its judgment. Consideration and kindly direction could be of importance.

The Nation Today

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, June 12—It's an amazing sight...

The heat wave among Republicans over what Republicans have done to the Marshall plan for helping Europe.

A couple of months ago both house and senate okayed the plan.

They voted for it after the most searching examination any program has received in recent years.

All last summer and fall — six months altogether — thousands of experts here and abroad had worked on the plan.

Then, around Christmas time President Truman handed it congress.

All the work done by the experts was then examined by the house committee on foreign affairs and senate foreign relations committee.

THEY WENT over the plan with a microscope. They called in top government officials and experts and questioned them.

Altogether, the two committees spent about six weeks each going over the plan, cutting where they could. Then they turned it over to both houses for a vote.

The full membership of the two houses couldn't go into the plan in detail. They had to depend largely on the word of their committees that the plan was all right.

So they voted for it and, at the same time, "authorized" spending $5,300,000,000 on it the first year.

Since the Republicans control both houses, the Republicans were responsible for the okay and the "appropriating."

But authorizing the spending of money isn't actually voting for the spending of it.

Authorizing is done first. Then congress comes along a little later and votes to spend it. This is called "appropriating."

In short, "authorizing" money is merely telling the U. S. treasurer how much money he'll have to

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Appetite No Guide On Diet

BY HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

MANY people believe that appetite is the best guide to good eating. The body's need for a particular food, they feel, will stimulate the appetite for it.

Since this is by no means true, they are largely "kidding" themselves when they reason further that if they eat what they like, they will inevitably get all the food elements necessary to good health.

To demonstrate more clearly how unreliable appetite alone can be as a guide to a proper diet, some recent studies were carried out with animal subjects.

It was found that the animals did seem to have some sort of ability to select certain minerals and vitamins on the basis of what they needed.

But, when it came to protein foods, such as are obtained from spend, "Appropriating" it tells him to go ahead and spend it.

But before any money is appropriated in congress, the appropriations committees of both houses look into the plan for spending it.

And it's always the house appropriations committee which starts the ball rolling.

REP. JOHN Taber, white-haired New York Republican who's built himself a reputation by his eagerness to cut down government spending, is chairman.

So for one month Taber's house appropriations committee held hearings of its own on the Marshall plan.

This was after all the work already done on it and after both houses had voted for the plan.

Even though the Republican-controlled house had authorized spending $5,300,000,000 or the plan the first year, Taber's committee decided to cut it down by over a billion dollars.

Did the committee decide to cut so much off this item, so much off that, going down the line in detail? No. It was to be a general cut.

And the house, again unable to go into all details, took Taber's say-so and voted to cut the Marshall plan by over one billion dollars.

This was the same house which, a couple of months ago, took the word of its foreign affairs committee and authorized $5,300,000,000.

But this cut won't be final unless the Republican-controlled senate also agrees to lop the billion or so dollars off the plan.

meat, eggs, fish, and milk, their appetite was definitely not an adequate guide. Some of the animals were so far off that they reached the point of starvation from lack of protein, even when the proteins they needed were in food containers in their cages and to be had for the eating.

Proteins are needed for building new tissues and replacing the worn-out ones. Animals from the same litter differed as to the foods they selected.

One animal might select a fairly good diet for itself, but a brother from the same litter, living under the same conditions, would not choose the necessary foods.

Thus, if animals under laboratory conditions can be guided only to some extent by appetite in selecting necessary foods, it would seem far less likely that human beings could be guided by appetite alone in selecting foods to make up a well-balanced diet.

This is particularly true in view of the many artificial and highly processed foods which constitute a great part of the diets commonly employed.

This does not mean that the appetite should be disregarded entirely. It only indicates that it is important for persons to know what foods supply the necessary vitamins, minerals, and proteins and to make sure that these foods are included in the daily diet.

A well-balanced diet can be built around such foods as a pint of milk a day for every adult, and a quart for the child; an egg a day; one serving of meat, fish, or poultry; two servings of vegetables and fruits; whole-grain cereals, and butter or fortified margarine.

Letters to Dr. Bundesen should be addressed in care of 235 E. 45th St., New York City.

Smuts Calls Upon West To Stop Reds

CAMBRIDGE, Eng., June 12—Field Marshall Jan Christian Smuts called upon the western world today to halt the "fifth column" advance of Soviet Communism.

He termed it a "silent horror" that has "all but proved a substitute for war itself."

The veteran South American statesman, recently defeated as premier and succeeded by the Nationalist Leader Dr. Daniel F. Masliah, spoke at ceremonies installing him as chancellor of Cambridge university.

Smuts warned that Soviet Communism, intoxicated with success, is directing a sustained, ruthless and aggressive advance against the war weary and disappointed west.

Smuts said:

"The hour has struck to call a halt to this fifth column in its advance westward and to say to the great power behind it: 'Thus far and no farther.'"

"We live in a dangerous epoch and must live dangerously."

Smuts stressed that the great powers are anxious to avoid war. He continued:

"None of them is in a position to fight another war. Some face revolution. All are aware that the war potential of either side may mobilize as to make another war absolute madness."

"Those east of the Iron Curtain know that the world fears war. They know that the people west of the curtain are pacific and in no mood to fight. They exploit this fear of war for their own purposes of aggression."

BRADLEY WARNS U. S. TO RE-ARM

DETROIT, June 12—American industry has a blunt warning today from Gen. Omar Bradley, Army chief of staff, that it must re-arm the nation even at the risk of "dangerous inflationary pressures."

Gen. Bradley, speaking before the American Ordnance association last night, declared that, even with the full cooperation of industry, "we shall face an irreducible lag of one year or more in production in the event of another war."

He said the public clamor for rapid demobilization at the end of World War II prevented the return of equipment scattered throughout the world and added that industry must replace this material.

Ohio CIO Challenges Columbus Income Tax

COLUMBUS, June 12—The Ohio Congress of Industrial Organizations announced today that it would challenge the constitutionality of this city's payroll-income tax.

"Many qualified legal and tax experts believe this ordinance is unconstitutional," William Lavelle, secretary of the Ohio CIO council, said. "Therefore, the Ohio CIO council will perform an important public service by taking all necessary steps to challenge the constitutionality in the Ohio courts."

Cadiz Editor Asks Check On OSU Man

CADIZ—Milton Ronsheim, editor of the Cadiz Republican has demanded a legislative investigation of Ohio State university's college of engineering for its professed "friendship" with the coal strip mine operators here.

Ronsheim's editorial statement was in answer to Prof. H. E. Nold, chairman of mine engineering at Ohio State, whose article in the current issue of the Engineering Experiment Station News stated that Ohio strip mining is an ultimate blessing rather than a curse.

Ronsheim, who recently won the highest award in Ohio for community service through his fight for strip mine control legislation, contended that possible tie-ups between big strip-operators and university mining professors be investigated. He based his proposal on the fact that thousands of taxpayer dollars yearly support the State university.

Nold claimed in his article that the principle of using land for the greatest good to the greatest number of people for a long period of time should prevail.

Nold added, "the facts are that almost all, and maybe all, of the surface which has been, or can be profitable, be turned upside down in strip-mining in Ohio and is submarginal or marginal land."

Ronsheim countered by saying that much of Ohio's good, beautiful land is being rapidly lost by strip-mining.

Cadillac

ACCEPTANCE

White Sidewall Tires available at additional cost.

Year after year, the preference for Cadillac grows and grows. But the preference shown for the new models now appearing on the streets and highways is beyond all previous experience. It is definitely the greatest upsurge in popularity in Cadillac's history. This great swing to Cadillac is largely a tribute to the car's extraordinary beauty and originality—for relatively few have yet had a chance to test its wonderful performance. More perfectly than ever, the car's inner goodness is mirrored in its outward beauty—and people can actually see the measure of Cadillac leadership as the car sweeps past on the highway.

There Were No 'Bad' Pupils When Mrs. Barber Instructed

There were no "bad" boys and girls in schools when Mrs. Isaac Barber of near Winona taught some 60 years ago.

Mrs. Barber, who recently observed her 85th birthday, nevertheless believed in sparing the rod in punishing unruly students. "I always got along with the pupils and the parents," she commented.

Shown in the accompanying photo with one of her pupils of the "days gone by," Samuel Hilliard of the Franklin road, Mrs. Barber, the former Idella Mary Urey, has spent most of her life on the Winona farm where she still resides.

Prior to her marriage in her early twenties, she taught five terms of country school.

The first time she tried for a teacher's certificate she was rejected because of her age—16. Examinations were held in Lisbon.

She began teaching after she was 18, her first term having been at Camp's, her home school. Twenty-five students were enrolled, ranging in age from six years to 18. The sixth reader was the highest taught.

There were no drinking fountains in those days. The water was carried in a bucket, which was placed on a bench. "We all drank out of the same tin cup and the water tasted good, too," she commented.

Children's favorite games were ball, "ring" and prisoners base. Spelling schools were popular and these were varied with literary entertainments.

Rode Horse To School
When the weather was inclement, Mrs. Barber rode horseback to school.

She taught two terms at Chestnut Grove school, which was on the Chestnut Grove rd., southeast of the city, it has been discontinued, and two terms at Fairview school, Fairview rd., south of Salem. She attended the annual Fairview school reunion last Saturday.

Mrs. Barber has two sons, Rayburn R., who resides with his mother; Lebert of the Damascus rd.; Mrs. Genesta Gray of W. State st., six granddaughters and one great-granddaughter. Mr. Barber is deceased.

Ashland, Ky., Girl Is Wed To Paul Rober Of Salem

Miss Mary Margaret Griffin, daughter of Mrs. G. W. Griffin of Ashland, Ky., and Paul Rober, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond S. Rober of Newarden st., were the principals in a beautiful wedding Thursday, June 3, in the South Ashland Methodist church there.

White gladioli against a background of palms, ferns and candelabra decorated the altar, where Rev. Orin Simmerman performed the double ring ceremony.

Raleigh Harris of Akron was accompanist for Orin Simmerman, Jr., who sang "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me" and Miss Madonna Collinsworth, who sang "A-ways" and "Indian Love Call."

Given in marriage by her brother, Lon Griffin, the bride was in a gown of white satin fashioned with a net yoke which ended in a high neckline. The fitted bodice buttoned to the waist in the back and had long pointed sleeves. The hoop skirt ended in a long train and her finger-tip veil of French illusion fell from a tiara edged in lace. She carried white calla lilies and a white orchid center.

Mrs. George L. Hall of Catlettsburg, sister of the bride, was matron of honor in pale pink. The fitted bodice was of taffeta and the full overskirt was of pink net. She wore a sweetheart bonnet with a shoulder-length veil in the same shade and matching gloves. Her arm bouquet was of pink roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Lale Blair, another sister, Mrs. George Hood and Miss Bernice Cunningham, the latter of Salem, were bridesmaids, and appeared in identical dresses and headresses in blue, aqua and yellow, respectively. They carried colonial bouquets of baby's breath and gardenias.

Doris Ann Griffin, the bride's niece, and Joe Rober, Salem, brother of the groom, were flower girl and ringbearer, respectively.

Donald Rober of Salem was his brother's best man, and Maynard Brantingham of Winona; Claude Mosher and George Bailey of Damascus and Leland Lotz, Jackson Center, were ushers.

Reception Is Held
A reception followed the ceremony at the Power Co. auditorium, where the bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake flanked by gladioli, sweetpeas and candles.

The bride's mother was in navy blue and white sheer with navy accessories while the groom's mother wore a black and white sheer with matching accessories. Both wore corsages of white rosebuds.

After an eastern trip the couple will reside in Salem.

Mr. Rober, who graduated from Salem High school, is a student at Asbury college, Wilmore, Ky.

Those who attended from Salem, besides those in the bridal party, were: Mr. and Mrs. Rober, Mrs. Donald Rober and Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Cunningham and daughter, Norma.

Second Guessing

By DON E. BEATTIE

DEPARTMENT OF INFORMATION

It wasn't without a feeling of satisfaction that Salem's Ben Barrett drew Warren's name out of the football preview lineup hat Thursday over at Niles. For Ben, believe it or not, has wanted a crack at Warren in football for some time.

The game without question will be the headline high school attraction at the Niles preview on Sept. 10. Because of the interesting aspects of the arrangement, the game has been made the finale of the evening.

Salem dropped the preview this year, in case you are wondering, because there aren't enough top-notch clubs available that night. Youngstown is holding its own preview this fall, thereby cutting out half the list Salem had here last season.

Getting back to the Salem-Warren deal, it seems Barrett is somewhat put out because the Warren outfit was high among a list of communities who felt that Salem's No. 8 spot in Ohio scholastic ranks was "out of line." In fact, the story has gotten back to Ben, one of the higher ups there made the statement that "they play tough football over in that county."

The game, of course, will consist of but 15 minutes of play, but it should provide an interesting appraisal of Salem possibilities that early in the year. Warren is always above the average, what with a huge amount of talent from which to draw.

It will be Salem's only jaunt next season against a member of the newly organized "Big 10" of Northeast Ohio, of which Alliance, Massillon, Warren, Mansfield and a few others are members.

The addition of two college teams to the preview slate, incidentally, is an innovation and will add to the drawing power of the event. And get this—the plans also include having the Cleveland Brown marionettes as a special halftime attraction.

LINKS DEPARTMENT
Salem's Andy Moseary, pro at the local links, is slated for his initial try at pro competition Monday when he enters the always difficult Akron open.

Andy is out to win a couple this year after a slow year last season due to an infected left arm. He's in top shape now, shooting par and under at the local course, and hopes to really go in a tourney or two.

The veteran golfer, a former pro at the Barberton club, once captured the top honors in the Akron event.

He has several other tourneys in mind for the balance of the season here.

ODDS AND ENDS

The sale of football season tickets is briskly moving. Fred Cope, Salem faculty manager said today Cope was greatly surprised again this year at the manner in which the fans began buying right from the start.

There are still good seats available for all the games, so get in line.

We hear through the rumor lines that Lisbon fans are already "hepped" on the approaching Salem-Lisbon football game here next fall.

Tight Tilt Feature As Low Standing Clubs Battle To Finish; Mullins Keeps Pace

The last place teams staged a rip-snorting battle Friday night at West End park, with the Electric Furnace finally pulling through over the Bliss to win an 8-7 victory. It was the first victory of the season for the Furnace and the eighth consecutive loss for the Bliss boys.

Mullins kept up its fast pace by drubbing the Democrats 12-4 in a five inning contest, while the China kept pace with a 7-4 triumph over the Elite Upholsters.

Warren Courtney slapped out three hits to pace the Furnace in a game which looked like a walkaway for six innings. The winners piled up seven runs to the Bliss' two in the first four frames. However, the latter came back with a big five run rally in the seventh and it took an extra tally by the Furnace to put the game away.

Frank Fowler, China topper, allowed the Elite hitters seven bingles, while his mates collected 10 off Don Bell. Harry Ehrhart notched three raps for the winners. The game was never in doubt, as the China jumped to a 4-1 edge in the first canto.

The Mullins-Democrat tilt looked like a tight one for a while. Mullins held a slight 3-2 edge going into the Sunday baseball feature in the district, besides the regular play at the Salem A. C. field, E. State st., is the fray at Lake Placidia between the Althouse Dodge team and the Rittman Boxboards at 2:30 p. m.

Winners of the 1947 Wayne county championship, the Rittman club has won nine and lost four games so far this year. Paulins, a famed former Akron Orphans star, does the hurling.

Bad Boy Of Boxing Back In Doghouse After Fight

By OSCAR FRALEY
UP Writer

NEWARK, N. J. June 12—The bad boy of boxing was right back in the doghouse today.

Rockey Graziano, the Dead End Kid from New York's lower East Side, had been stripped of the mid-dleweight boxing championship—a glittering foundation for respectability.

And it looked like it would be a long, long while before "The Rock" would get another crack at the title.

That comes right from Tony Zale, the poker-faced pole from Gary, Ind., who let Graziano keep the crown for him a short while and then sent it tumbling from Rocky's spinning head at Ruppert stadium Thursday.

"I guess that takes care of Graziano—for good," the unemotional Zale retorted. "I don't see why I should fight him again. I've beaten him twice and this time was the easiest of all."

Absolutely stoic, Zale made you feel that this had been an easy triumph, and he was also advising the world that before he'd batter down this bull-like young man again, "The Rock" would have to go and get himself a reputation.

Both before and after the fight, Tough Tony was the calmest and coolest person in the filled and frenzied ball park. He had the supposedly uncrackable "Rock" on the ropes right in the first round; looked to be a bit shaken himself in the second and then proceeded to go out and stretch Graziano cold on the deck with a murderous but machine like bit of precision punching.

"I guess," the 34-year old champion said with out of his brief smiles, "I'm getting younger, going the wrong way, instead of getting older."

Charley Hartnett is following in the cleat marks of his father, Jimmy, who was a top infielder with Villanova.

RECOMMEND HIGHER PAY FOR ENGINEERS

Says State's Road Program Hurt by Low Salaries Offered in Dept.

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS—The American Society of Civil Engineers reports that low salaries paid engineers hampered road building in Ohio and other states.
Frank M. Williams, chief engineer for the Ohio State Highway department, confirmed the society's report that lack of highway engineers was "one of the most serious deterrents to the highway program."
"The shortage of engineers in the highway department is very serious," Williams said. "It is the bottleneck in our road building program."
"We are losing engineers every day," Williams added. "They get considerably more money with private industry."
Williams disclosed that the Highway department was sending representatives to the engineering colleges in an attempt to induce some of the graduates this month to take up state employment. The effort has not been very successful, he added.
"A graduate can start for at least $300 a month in private industry," Williams explained. "The top starting pay offered by the Highway department is $283 a month."
In attempting to drum up recruits among engineering college graduates, the Highway department stresses civil service security and the broad experience available for beginners. Williams said most graduates were turning a deaf ear to these sales points.
The salary schedules for civil service engineers are fixed by statute. They can be increased only by the legislature.
The American Society of Civil Engineers made a study of salaries in 10 state Highway departments. It showed average salaries for engineers' aides and licensed engineers ranged from $1,945 to $9,030. In Ohio, the scale ranges from $1,700 to $5,800.
The study showed the current federal scale ranges from $3,400 to $10,000. The society recommended for state highway departments a scale ranging from $2,700-$3,400 to $10,350-$12,600 "with such adjustments as may be required for local conditions."

ments as may be required for local conditions."

The engineers in the executive class the society recommended salaries of $12,600 and up. House Votes Down Pole Admission Bill

WASHINGTON, June 12—The house voted down, 77 to 87, today a proposal to admit 18,000 former Polish soldiers to this country.
The Polish soldiers fought against Germany and are now in England. Rep. Lodge (R-Conn.) proposed to open the way for them to come to the United States. He sought to amend legislation which would admit 200,000 homeless Europeans within the next two years.
Lodge described the Poles as "symbols of persecution in the most real and cruel sense."
During the debate, Rep. Leask (D. Mich.) said 90 per cent of all immigrants since World War II have been Jews.
Rep. Celler (D-NY) accused Leask of voicing "a veiled prejudice utterly unworthy of any member of this house."

Cochran also has been sentenced to dismissal from the service and total forfeiture of pay and allowances.

Kill Big Cat Blamed For Farm Poultry Loss

LISBON, June 12—A wild cat, said to be twice as large as an ordinary house cat, has been killed by Assistant County Welfare Director Richard Andrus on his farm near Gavers on State Route 164.
Farmers in that vicinity during the last three weeks suffered heavy loss in poultry.
Andrus said he lost 60 hens and a neighbor, Leo Maple, 65.
Before the cat was killed, farmers in the Gavers vicinity thought a fox was the cause of the loss. A night vigil was kept and the cat was killed as it emerged from the Andrus poultry house with a chicken.
